

The Nation's Leading Closeout Food Buyers, Marvell Foods, Offers Cold Storage Operators Quick Cash for Frozen Grocery Liquidation

A leading national food broker offers cold storage operators and owners financial solutions to move inventory, clear warehouse shelving space, and make quick cash on unsellable products.

BOCA RATON, Fla., September 20, 2022 (NewsWire.com) -

Marvell Foods, one of the nation's leading closeout food buyers, brokers, and liquidators, facilitates the country's supply chain logistics, aiding owners of cold storage facilities to move and sell overstocked, damaged, or otherwise unsellable products. When dormant goods occupy income-producing shelf space, and when owners are stuck with goods from unpaid invoices, that represents lost income to warehouse owners. Marvell Foods, the nation's leading specialist in buying and selling surplus, salvage, and excess inventory, provides financial relief to offload these non-income-producing goods while making room for new merchandise while generating much-needed cash.

POST-PANDEMIC COSTS = NEW NEED FOR CASH FLOW

With a dramatic cost in post-COVID warehousing and transportation services, Marvell assists owners of cold storage depots facilitating the liquidation of potentially valuable (food) assets using Marvell Foods' unique market access to alternative markets developed during three decades in the food industry. Warehouse owners no longer need to absorb the cost of discontinued, unpopular, damaged, or expired food. Marvell Foods has a national network of buyers for these products that are often perfectly sellable in secondary markets.

"Frozen food inventory, either in a cold storage warehouse or in a manufacturer or retailer's warehouse, represents a significant market opportunity," says Marilyn Raybin, President of Marvell Foods. Raybin, "Frozen food items have a remarkably long lifespan, provided the correct packaging and storage, manufacturers and retailers are sitting with a depreciating food asset costing them space and labor on perfectly wholesome goods they can offer at discount prices, generating additional revenue."
